Gen. Butler having been nominated for Congress, in his district in Massachusetts, took occasion to notify those who opposed his nomiation, than any further opposition to him would be "treason to the party, and all who took part in it would be traitors." This is is an extension of the usual definition of "treason" and "traitors." Gen. B. also, made a very safe proposition to his opponents. He told them if they would get General Grant or Mr. Colfax to say that, they or either of them, did'nt want him to be a candidate, or to be electedwhy, then, he would immediately withdraw! "Risum teneatis"! Butler knows that he is the very man Gen. G. and Mr. C. want!

The opinion of Judge Boynton, in Florida, refusing the application for a habeas corpus in the cases of Mudd, Spangler and Arnold, confined in a military prison at the Dry Tortugas, for alleged complicity in the assassination of the late President Lincoln, has been received in Washington. The decission is that the prisoners were tried for a military offence-that a military court was, therefore, legal, and that the case does not come under the amnesty proclamation.

The death of Count Walewiski in Paris, is announced. He was a native of Poland, and reputed to be a natural son of the Emperor Napoleon I., by a Polish lady. After the revolution of July' 1830, he entered the French army and was promoted to a captaincy, but soon resigned his commission. He then became a man of society, a publicist, and a dramatic author. From 1840 to 1860 he held various diplomatic missions in foreign countries.

The New York Herald, referring to the disturbances at Camilla, Ge rgia, says :- "Now that the whole history of that event is seen, it is underiably clear that the blacks provoked the disturbance. They marched with their Radical leaders, with music and arms, into a quiet town, comporting themselves in an offensive manner, making a bullying expedition; and the menace of their conduct was met as if it were real."

It appears that there is an intemperate paper published in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, whose articles are used at the North as proof of the "disloyalty" of the white people of Alabama. The Conservative Central Committee of the state have passed a resolution to the effect that these articles misrepresent the opinions and views of the people, and they ought not to be held responsible for them.

A Grant and Colfax Club, with an array of officers, &c. has lately been formed, in Berry's district, Montgomery county, Md. It is said that out of a vote of 2,800 in Montgomery, the Radical strength is probably about 300. So that a Grant and Colfax Club amounts to but very little there.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that "nine invalid soldiers were recently discharged from the asylum near Dayton, Ohio, for attending a Democratic meeting addressed by Vallandigham on Monday night. Others are expected to follow." This if true, was a great outrage.

NEWS OF THE DAY. "To show the very age and body of the Times."

A letter from Helena, Arkansas, gives the particulars of a desperate affair in that vicinity. A Sheriff's posse attempted to arrest a colored man, who is alleged to have killed several persons. They surrounded the man's house, when he made a desperate resistance, firing upon the attacking party, killing the Sheriff and wounding two others, and then escaped to the woods. Reinforcements were obtained, and Morrison, the alleged murderer, found, wounded in the left side and one arm broken. A vote was taken by his captors, whites and blacks, and they decided to hang him, which was done.

On Friday night last a band of U. S. colored troops at Goldsboro. N. C., atrempted to mob two colored democratic speakers, but were prevented by white citizens. In a conflict last night between colored soldiers and citizen blacks, one of the former and one of the latter were wounded. In the latter case amputation of the lower limb was necessary. Constant excitement and a general feeling of insecurity on the part of the citizens prevail.

A dispatch from Memphis says Gen. J. C. Hindman, late C. S. A., was assassinated at his residence in Helena last night. The Superintendent of Police received a dispatch yesterday, directing him to arrest a man named Robbins, a passenger on the Shreve, who it is believed committed the deed. Robbins was arrested and sent back. He is from Springfield, Mo., and served under Hindman. He denies being the murderer.

Among the deaths of men connected with the press at one time or another, for a greater or less period, we notice that of Abner Greenleaf, of Portsmouth. N. At political procession in Philadelphia yesterday as the rear of the Invincibles was turning Ninth and Chestnut streets, a collision occurred with the Keystone Democratic Club. VIEGINIA NEWS.

A special to the Richmond Dispatch says the train on the Central railroad, with two hundred of the 29th U. Three companies of the same ragiment left Richmond to-day for Tennessee.

Haman Pohl, an old man about 70 years of age, who, with his wife, resides near Stapleton Milis, in Amherst county, had his house entered on Saturday night, the 19th instant, about 8 o'clock, by three desperadoes, by whom they were treated most inhumanly, besides being robbed of all the property they possessed.

On Saturday night, in New Kent county, Mrs. Stewart, a widow, was murdered, and the corpse burnt with the dwelling. John Baker, her farm manager, was also murdered and robbed of five hundred dollars in gold. Four houses were recently burned in the same neighborhood. The military will be sent thither.

into the country. In addition to the trade by the way of the Alexandria, Loudoun & Hampshire Railroad, the Canal by way of Marlow's, at White's ferry, four miles from this place, and of Berlin, supplies, probably, twice as much as comes by railroad, while the Manassas Gap Road from Rectortown and Piedmont supplies the southwestern portion of Loudoun.

The river stations give the farmers the advantage of the freight, as their boats carry grain down and bring guano, &c., back; and they at least divide this up freight with the farmer. Whether the diminished price of fertilizers will pay for going four miles further and crossing the river, depends upon the fact of Marlow giving more for grain than Leesburg, or not. This is sometimes the case, and at other times decidedly the contrary.

The most noticeable county news is that a fine, extensive quarry of white marble has recently been discovered on the lands of B. F. Carter, near Mountsville, and on the banks of Goose Creek a few hundred yards above the Yankee mill, and 4 of a mile from the Aldie and Snicker's Gap Turopike. It covers apparently about 16 acres, and is said to be a very fine quality of the marble known as Baltimore county limestone. It is a beautiful marble for tombstones, as it takes a good polish.

On the same tract is a fine free stone quarry, soft and tough when first quarried, but getting hard upon exposure to the air.

The farm is about 11 miles from Leesburg by the present road, but by the proposed turnpike to Aldie about 16 miles. Immense rains have delayed seeding operations, but have greatly improved the fall pas-Butter is wonderfully scarce here, commanding thirty-five cents by the wholesale, and 371 to 40 by retail, and yet our people do not seem to appreciate the importance of dairy

The Aldie turnpike drags its slow length along. Our friends at Aldie have been bit so frequently by grasping at canals and railroads, which were chimerical schemes, that they do not now seem disposed to take hold of a really practicable scheme. A turnpike grade can be had, not exceeding, 1 in 20, and almost straight, for a cost not exceeding $2000 per mile of 11 miles, and over which four horses could draw 100 bushels of wheat, or as much more as their wagons would bear, at a cost not exceeding one dollar an acre for the lands along the road, and yet they hold back in the dreamy hope of getting the people of Washington to build them a railroad; when to make the road available it would be necessary to have a vastly better road than most of them have now, if not the turnpike itself. When they shall have dragged over (No, THROUGH) the present road another winter they may wake up to the fact, not only of the practicability, but of the expediency, and indeed absolute necessity of having the turnpike.

Virginia Lands.

We affirm, without fear of successful contradiction, that in no part of the United States, or of the world, can lands of equal quality and possessing such a combination of advantages, be purchased as cheap as in Virginia. Lands originally superior, and fully equal in present productiveness to the fine farming lands in England, may be purchased in fee simple for a sum equal to the annual rent of the English lands. These, be it remembered, are not wild ands or commons, but well enclosed productive farming lands, with good dwellings and other improvements on them. Inferior lands in the Northern States would be considered cheap at four times the price here.

But looking at the varied attractions which Virginia combines in herself, the conviction is irresistible that she offers, at present prices for her lands, the finest field for speculation or for permanent investment, of any country in the

With such advantages as these, a stranger may well ask why are these lands so cheap?-The answer is plain. There is not a tenth of the labor here that is needed to develope our resources, and not capital to employ profitably the labor we have. The necessary consequence is a vast surplus of splendid land, put in market at a mere fraction of its real value; while priceless minerals lie dormant in the earth, and water-power equal to a million hands flows unheeded to the sea, for want of the capital to current fiscal year ending 30th June, 1869, the turn them to account.

We repeat what we have elsewhere stated, that if we deduct the actual cost of improvements, some of the finest estates in Virginia may now be purchased for less than the government price of wild lands in the far West .-We waive any calculation of the value of our nearness to market; we waive the consideration of the moral, social and religious advantages of the oldest and most refined State in the four million of dollars. What to do-how to stop the mad career of the engine-were the questions which present ed themselves for solution to the minds of the railroad officials at Poughkeepsie. There was but one resource, and that was to telegraph to the station at New Hamburg to throw open the switch at that point and run the flying locomotive off the track.

But before the agent at that place could execute the order, the Arctic came tearing along at the greatest speed, passed the station in safety, and was flying on its course like a do-mon of destruction. Orders were sent ahead for the track to be torn up, and it was determined that if possible no one should be harmed by the freaks of the madman but himself, neither his life nor the value of the engine being considered of the least account when the lives of so many others were depending on the

Fortunately the engine was stopped by causes within itself, rather than by any of the measures suggested for its overthrow and destruction. The engineer at Poughkeepsie, when he left the engine to look for his absent fireman, had both pumps at work filling the boiler with

The fireman either did not know how to shut off the flow of cold water or had overlooked in his freezy and excitement the fact that the pumps were at work, and neglected to shut them off, and after running about a dezen miles the pressure of the water upon the boiler was so great as to cause an overflow, the fire went down, steam was exhausted, and the engine stopped for the want of the necessary driving

The fireman then took the cushions from the engineer's seat, laid them down in the gutter alongside the track, and coolly deposited himself upon them for a comfortable snooze, unmindful of the terrible excitement and apprehensions of disasters he had caused along the line of the road. The engine was subsequently brought back to Poughkeepsie, none the worse for its mad journey, and the faithless fireman was discharged from the employ of the company .- Troy (N. Y.) Times.

The National Finances.

At the request of several citizens in New York, Mr. Alexander Delmar, Director of the Bureau of Statistics, has prepared an official statement relative to the Finances of the country, and the deficit in the Treasury. The National Intelligencer says:

It will be perecived from this authentic statement that the expenditures of the Government for the last three fiscal years were as follows: For 1865-6.....$576,477,103-62 For 1866-7...... 392,444,291 34 For 1867-3.....

These expenditures for the last fiscal year were not actual war expenditures, but were those made in time of profound peace, and in the third year after the war, and when its great incidental expenses had ceased. This statement also shows that our expenditures are increasing, having been $22,469,312.85 greater during the last fiscal year than the year preceding. The greatest mistake in former unauthorized statements was, in omitting from expenditures autherized the sum of $144,778,472.25, being unexpended balances of former appropriations.

The expenditures specially authorized for the current fiscal year will be $482,059,202.23, thus showing an increase of expenditure in the fourth year after the war, of $37,145,598.04, as compared with the year preceding. Here, too, we find balances outstanding of old appropriations, July 1, 1868, $150,417,552.77.

The receipts from all sources are then given, showing "a deficiency on the 30th of June next of $154,000,000" which can only be supplied by new taxes, or another increase of the publi debt, to the extent of one hundred and fiftyheeded by Congress. It is clear, then, that we stand on the brink of a financial precipies.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette says: "Telegrams to Secretary McCulloch an-

Mr. Delmar 5,000 concludes his statement, with this opinion:-

"The reconstruction measures and tenure-ofoffice law are the main cause of all the extrava gant expenditures which, under economical management, I think could be diminished within a year to $200,000,000 per annum, including gold interest on the public debt.
